1. What is an important lesson learned from the story that you use in your life?

I Learned that when you love someone and you get a little angry you should not do something bad to that person if that person made you mad.

2. Why does this story make the Torah important to you?

I think this story is important because it teaches you a very important lesson and that lesson is that you should never retaliate and be mean to someone you love. This is one of the many stories of all the torahs but, this is one of the important lessons in all of the torahs. There are many lessons in the torahs.

DON'T FORGET THE OTHER SIDE!

3. How does this story help you connect with other Jewish people?

It helps me connect with the Jewish people because this story is in the torah and all Jewish people eventually read from the torah.

the lesson because
4. How do you use the lesson you learned from this story in your life?

I use it. It helps me alot in life and I can tell my family and it can help them too. I use the lesson when I am mad at my sister but, I know I shouldn't do something back to her.
